SELECTED OTHER CLINIC CASES

State v. Pond, N07M-CR08-0249522-S. Decided November 30, 2015. Superior Court granted clinic’s motion for dismissal of re-prosecution on remand from Connecticut Supreme Court. Student attorneys co-wrote and briefed motion to dismiss.

State v. Lahai, N07MCR060237378S. Decided March 25, 2013. Successful motion to dismiss re-prosecution of client after clinic obtained new trial for inmate in habeas action. Student attorneys co-wrote motion and legal memorandum and presented oral argument.

Lahai v. Warden, 2012 WL 1959065, 2012 Conn. Super. LEXIS 1196, Rockville Superior Court, decided May 7, 2012, by Judge Samuel Sferrazza. Successful habeas corpus claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel. Two clinic students co-briefed and orally argued case. Trial counsel had requested a jury charge that relieved state of its burden of proof on self-defense. New trial ordered.

SELECTED OTHER CLINIC CASES (continued)

Application of M.D. for Pardon (2007). Successful application to Connecticut Board of Pardons and Paroles for pardon and erasure of felony drug and assault offenses. Supervised student in preparing application package and making presentation at hearing before the Board

Groomes v. Commissioner of Correction, U.S. District Court, District of Connecticut, 3:06-cv00201-AWT. Federal habeas corpus petition for state inmate under 28 U.S.C. § 2254.

King v. Warden, 2011 WL 5531336, 2011 Conn. Super. LEXIS 2719, Rockville Superior Court, decided October 27, 2011, by Judge Susan Cobb. Successful habeas corpus claim of ineffective assistance of counsel based on counsel's deficient advice that led petitioner to reject a 3 ½ year sentence in a plea offer, following which he was convicted at trial and then given a sentence of 18 years' incarceration. Students co-drafted the habeas petition and trial briefs and assisted at habeas trial. After the habeas court ordered relief, the state did not appeal but disputed habeas court's authority to order the original trial court to order specific relief. Obviating need to resolve the conflict between the habeas court's authority and the trial court's authority, the presiding judge at the Bridgeport Superior Court commuted the petitioner's sentence to "time served" on February 25, 2012.

State v. Josue C., 2009 WL 765692, Manchester Superior Court, decided by Judge William H. Bright. After defendant was convicted of three offenses stemming from exercise of speech rights on his own property, the clinic appeared, filed a post-verdict memorandum of law, and presented oral argument challenging the convictions. The trial court ordered acquittals on all counts.

State v. Holliday, CR01-194794. Sentence Review case decided favorably in August 2005. Two clinic students represented client who was serving 40-year sentence for first degree robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery. The sentence review panel reduced client's sentence by 15 years, remarking, "We agree with the petitioner that a sentence in the 40 year range is generally reserved for those perpetrators whose acts result in serious physical injury or death."

Application of T.M. for Pardon (2004). Successful application to Connecticut Board of Pardons for pardon and erasure of larceny convictions for person from Eritrea who offended shortly after immigration into the U.S. Assembled supporting documentation and appeared at Board hearing to narrate biographical and cross-cultural background material.

State v. Groomes, CR91-347582. In April 2004, supervised a Clinic student who successfully argued that three judge sentence review panel should reduce by 25 years sentence imposed in 1993 for multiple garage burglaries and bicycle thefts committed in 1991.

Groomes v. Commissioner of Correction, CV94-2114, Rockville Superior Court, Judge Edward Graziani. Twelve-day state habeas corpus trial, from December 2001, to July 2003. Twelve Clinic students worked on the case from 1996-2003. Partially favorable habeas judgment to reinstatement of right to sentence review, which led to 25-year reduction in prison term; other issues appealed.

Johnson v. Commissioner of Correction, CV99-549240, New London Superior Court, Judge Richard Dyer. State habeas corpus trial, June 2000. Two students on case. Won trial on ex post facto grounds and later prevailed on appeal in Connecticut Supreme Court on statutory grounds, Johnson v. Commissioner of Correction, 258 Conn. 804 (2002). Precedent affected over 800 inmates who would have had to serve 35% longer prison terms to become eligible for parole.
