

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, August 2023 – present

University of Connecticut School of Law

Responsibilities:

- Oversee academic support, academic misconduct, accommodations, regional and ABA accreditation, advising, bar success, curriculum development, faculty service, learning assessment, new programs, student affairs, teaching, and policy functions at the Law School.
- Supervise Registrar's Office and Student Affairs, including two direct and eight indirect reports.
- Manage $450K budget for non-permanent faculty teaching.
- Serve as primary liaison with the Provost's Office and other University units regarding new program development, accreditation, student conduct, and Law School policies.
- Represent Law School at alumni, admissions, student organization, and orientation events.

Key Achievements:

- Redesigned the Law School's bar success program to prepare for Connecticut's early adoption of the NextGen Bar. Leveraged budget savings to introduce two new pre-bar courses, hire a part-time Bar Success Coach, and implement a data driven support model to prioritize resources for at-risk students.
- Developed strategy for revenue generating initiatives and online education. Acquired deep expertise in University and Law School budgeting systems, engaged stakeholders, and delivered a long term strategy. Created two new revenue generating programs, launched JD certificate, and positioned the school to expand online offerings while maintaining academic integrity.
- Reformed the Law School's curriculum development and planning process by introducing a data driven model based on 10 year enrollment trends, reorienting curricular decision making on student need, rotating low enrollment courses, aligning teaching with institutional priorities, and strengthening student advising. Expanded curricular depth by recruiting new adjunct experts.
- Collaborated with the Office of Diversity, Belonging, and Community Engagement to support pipeline programs and design initiatives to foster classroom dialogue. Currently collaborating on grant to expand pipeline initiatives into a structured, multiyear program.
- Revamped adjunct faculty program to strengthen recruitment, training, and teaching quality. Recruited new faculty in emerging practice areas, created a comprehensive orientation program, and implemented systematic evaluation processes to enhance the quality of adjunct teaching.
- Modernized Registrar's Office systems to improve efficiency, reduce costs, and align with university-wide processes. Secured access to student evaluation of teaching platform and initiated transition to an integrated online catalog, curriculum management, and workflow software.
- Successfully managed faculty, student, and staff conflicts and engaged in organizational culture building by mediating disputes and promoting transparency. Led efforts to enhance communication around personnel procedures and expectations.

Associate Director and Director of Graduate Studies, 2015-2021

Gladstein Family Human Rights Institute, University of Connecticut

- Provided leadership to department-equivalent unit in areas of curriculum, programming, personnel, fundraising, strategic planning, and new initiatives. Oversaw University-wide program of human rights graduate study, chaired graduate funding committees, served as lead organizer for major biannual conference. Reviewed joint faculty for purposes of promotion and tenure.

Key Achievements:

- Collaborated with and supported Director in designing and executing strategies for a successful $6 million endowment campaign. Engaged with University Foundation staff to develop, draft, and present proposals to donors. Contributed to securing philanthropic support for programmatic and curricular growth, strengthening the unit's long term sustainability and impact.
- Partnered with the Director to design and implement a strategic planning cycle, including organizing and facilitating a department retreat that generated new initiatives, such as a fourth-year MA program and the Human Rights in Practice research cluster. Drafted accreditation and program review documents.

Director, LL.M. in Human Rights and Social Justice, 2014-2018, 2020, 2022, 2025-present

Director, Human Rights Certificate, 2013-present

University of Connecticut School of Law

- Made admissions decisions and advised students, obtained new program acquiescence, drafted regulations, managed program budget, and oversaw program curriculum.
